Add-on bookings received after the end of May will incur a late booking fee of £50.00 per group.

Phoenix Park – Dublin

The Phoenix Park is the largest urban park in Europe; it contains a number of stately homes and has also been home to a large herd of fallow deer since the 17th century. The park houses Dublin Zoo, reputed to be the fourth oldest zoo in the world. An exhibition on the history and wildlife of the Phoenix Park is on display in the Visitor Centre. Adjoining the Centre is the fully restored Ashtown Castle, a medieval tower house that dates to before the 17th century.

Viking Splash – Dublin

Climb aboard a re-conditioned World War II amphibious vehicle for a 75-minute tour of Dublin by land and water. Costumed Viking captains will take you through Georgian Dublin before splashing into The Grand Canal Basin

Galway

Harbour city on Ireland’s west coast. Standing on the River Corrib between Lough Corrib and Galway Bay, Galway is a very special destination where traditional Irish culture sits beautifully within a modern, vibrant and diverse city.

Add-on bookings received after the end of May will incur a late booking fee of £50.00 per group.

Giant's Causeway

Area of about 40,000 hexagonal interlocking basalt columns, the result of an ancient volcanic eruption located on the north coast of Northern Ireland. It was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site and a national nature reserve. The tops of the columns form stepping stones that lead from the cliff foot and disappear under the sea.

Kilkenny Castle – Kilkenny

Castle built in 1195, soon after the Norman conquest of Ireland, to control the River Nore and the junction of several routeways. The Castle has been rebuilt, extended and adapted to suit changing circumstances over a period of 800 years. Today, Kilkenny Castle is largely a Victorian remodelling of the thirteenth century defensive Castle with fifty acres of rolling parkland, home to mature trees and an abundance of wildlife.

Add-on bookings received after the end of May will incur a late booking fee of £50.00 per group.
